			CFTC has launched a new phase of our First Nations food security programming with generous funding provided by The Slight Family Foundation. The Healthy Bodies, Healthy Minds initiative is a national, comprehensive food security program with a mandate to partner with 20 new First Nation communities by 2020. Recognizing that local partners are the	Chronically drought-prone, Ethiopia's agricultural productivity is compromised by the impacts of climate change and poverty, leaving many Ethiopians food insecure. We support climate-smart agriculture and better access to education for children, women and men.	IMPACT OF DONATIONS ON KIDS

			most knowledgeable champions of their own community, CFTC will work with First Nation partners to achieve transformative, sustainable change through a combination of hands-on learning for students; consistent, nutritious, culturally appropriate meals; land-based learning and traditional food practices; nutrition education for students, families and community members; and the engagement of youth champions.
